Hop Quality Group Monthly Meeting December 2022

Executive Committee meeting Call to Order: 12/14/2022

• Committee members – President Alec Mull, Vice President Jamie Floyd, Treasurer Ben Bailey, Secretary Jeremy Moynier, At Large Joe Mohrfeld, At Large Teddy Gowan, Past President John Mallett.

Financial/Governance (Ben Bailey)

- General liability, Professional and Directors insurance
  - Goal is to have this in place for the 2023 season, so met with industry vet Andrew Shatuk.
- Accounting, taxes, reporting
  - Evaluated three so far, none has been determined to be best fit (cost, service). Continuing the search while considering an interim.
- Budget
  - $\circ$  \$308K in the bank
  - Scheduled for a $7K loss but LBE is $9K gain by EOY
  - Committee chairs get with Ben and the Board to request funds for 2023 projects
  - Ben is setting up a separate account for scholarships (legal requirement)
  - Final budget will be presented at the annual meeting
  - Stragglers Make sure you contact Ben and pay dues right away.

DE&I (Krystal Angelo)

• Please contact Krystal if you can be co-chair (krystal@pinthouse.com).

Technical: (Tom Nielsen, Co-Chair Daniel Sharp)

- Finalizing budget
- Updating mission statement

Breeding Program: (Angela Randazzo and Dr. Henning)

All efforts at this time are focused on processing and sending/shipping out samples for various purposes

- Finished up pelleting advanced lines
- Run n sniff samples shipped out. OSU shipping department made a mistake and shipped group 3 samples to group 2 brewers. OSU preparing labels to ship group 3 samples. Please note boxes for #2 or #3. If you got Group 3 you'll get a shipping label so you can send the samples to the intended brewery.
  - Deadline for brewers getting these submitted: ideal to have data submitted before convention, so please jump on these when they arrive.
- Chemistry samples were submitted. Awaiting results, possibly have them ready by the annual meeting.

Brewing Trials

- Firestone Walker has graciously offered to take on all of the trials from the 2022 harvest.
  - Mother wort would be used for all trials. (split and dry-hopped with elite hop samples).
    - Control will be non-dry hopped beer.
- We'll be taking a different approach to what we've done historically. Specific details still need to be worked out, but essentially they'll be running dry hop trials as opposed to brewing trials.
- The wheels are in motion for booking a room at the CBC in Nashville, potentially off site.

Grower Relations (Jeremy Moynier)

Domestic

• Need a BBQ spot for 2023, will bring it up during convention Roundtable.

  - Tom will send a Jotform poll to Voting Members email address (Yes, No, Abstain format).

Member At Large

• Scott Mohr, Brewer & R&D at Pelican Brewing Company

I have been with Pelican Brewing Company for almost 4 years, with 3 of those years being a production brewer and member of the R&D team. I am running for the Member-At-Large position that will be open next term. I am running for this soon to be opened position because I have been motivated by the work and passion that HQG has shown in pushing the brewing and hop industries forward in quality and in safety. From grower relations and worker safety, "hops as food products", improved quality, and public breeding and the technical studies, this work is critical for all breweries small and large. These focuses have already encouraged me to get involved, as I currently sit on the Membership Committee and the Scholarship Committee. As a young brewer, I think it is important that this work continues to be pushed further and further as the agriculture and brewing industries continue to adjust to numerous and evolving challenges. I hope that as a member of the Executive Team, I can help drive this group forward.

• Sam Pecoraro, Head Brewer at Von Ebert Brewing

Sam Pecoraro is Head Brewer at Von Ebert Brewing in Portland, Oregon. Before assuming that role in 2018, Sam's brewery experience includes time spent with Breakside Brewery, The Commons Brewery and Burnside Brewing. Since 2018, Von Ebert has expanded to two breweries with four locations and has received back-to-back GABF Medals in American IPA, as well as Silver for Von Ebert Pils in the 2022 competition. Sam is a current member of the Oregon Brewers Guild Board of Directors, currently serving as Secretary. Other active memberships include the DEI committees of the Oregon Brewers Guild and Von Ebert Brewing, as well as the Oregon Beer Awards Style Guidelines Committee. With Hop Quality Group, Sam participates in Pellet Mill and Grower Relations committee and took part in the international trip to Germany in 2022.

• Patrick Chavanelle, Senior R&D Brewer at Allagash

Patrick Edward Robert Chavanelle aka Chavez, has been at Allagash Brewing Company for nearly 12 years. He is currently the Senior R&D Brewer, responsible for coordinating new beer development, analyzing raw materials, and various other projects. He has been an active member of the Hop Quality Group since 2015 when he went on his first farm visit. In 2019 he attended the ID trip, as well as his first rodeo, where he has never been so proud to be an American. In 2021 he joined the Technical Committee and took over the coordination of the brewing trials. He speaks proudly of his involvement in this group and is looking forward to the ways in which he can continue contributing.

• Coren Tradd, Senior R&D Brewer at Pelican Brewing Company

I've been a brewer for almost 10 years now, all with Pelican Brewing Co on the Oregon coast. Started as a keg washer/general laborer/occasional sales delivery driver and worked my way up from there. I spent about 4 years in production, going from packaging manager to lead brewer. I am now our Senior R&D brewer and run our northernmost brewpub where I not only brew but also am responsible for staff education and all the other aspects of brewpub life. Being in the brewing industry for a while, I've always been involved with hops in the way of selections or farm visits, or things like that, but the HQG takes that all to the next level for me. I respect and am inspired by the mission of the group, and think this type of work is critical to both the brewing industry and hop industry. I've enjoyed my time so far in the group and am involved in the Grower Relations Committee as well as the Scholarship Committee. I hope to bring my experience and brewers work ethic to this role, should I be elected, and continue the evolution of a group such as this moving forward.

New Business

- Next meeting is the Annual meeting at HGA at 9am pst Thursday January 26, 2023.
